A False Lesson.

The Labor Enquirer of Chicago presents what it calls "an object lesson, showing how labor is robbed," which is very striking presentation to the eye, and only the element of truth to make it valuable; wanting that it is either an ignorant or intentional attempt to deceive those whom the paper pretends to instruct.

The Labor Enquirer shows, by a perver-sion of facts and figures, that the hand workers of the country are gradually reticles that are produced by their labor and the capital of the employer combined. But not true. Only a very slight inquiry into and a very superficial knowledge of the facts are needed to establish the falsity of the position taken by the Labor Enquirer. so slight in fact that it justifies the belief that the perversion was intentional rather than ignorant. It is a fact so well established that no man of ordinary intelligence pretends to deny it, that capital is now being paid less wages than it ever was before in the history of the world. As evidence of this, money can be borrowed at 4 per cent, upon anything like reasonable security. Another evidence is that two thirds of the railways of the country paid less than 2 per cent. last year upon the money invested in their con-

There are two other facts that it would be as much a work of supererrogation to cite authorities to establish as it would be to cite proof that the sun diffuses warmth, these are, that all classes of handworkers are now receiving higher wages than ever before, and that the unit of wages purchases more of the necessaries of life than ever before.

Mr. Edward Atkinson, in an exhaustive review of this subject, shows conclusively how false are the deductions of the Labor Enquirer, and we quote some facts from Lis article :

In point of fact, at the present low prices of buildings and machinery, it requires about $1,000 to be invested in an entirely new mill and machinery for each hand employed in an average plain cotton factory; and if from one-quarter to one-half of a cent a yard of medium cloth of average quality can be secured fro oods now worth three to ten cents per yard, he factory will earn six to eight per cent, on its capital; labor, on the other hand, will secure one and one-fourth to three cents per yard, the rest of the price of the goods being expended for materials and charges. Both parties will thus obtain the largest profits and the highest rate of wages which the price of

In the woolen mill, on common every-day goods, such as flannels and plain cassimeres the ratio is about $500 capital to one workman; and if the owner can secure four to six cents from each dollar's worth of product, he will make eight to ten per cent, on his capital, In the shoe factory anly $350 to $300 of cani-tal invested is required to each workman, while the annual product is three to five times the value of the capital invested; therefore, if the owner can secure 3 to 6 cents a pair on shoe worth $1 to $2, or 3 per cent, of the proceeds of the sales, he will earn 10 per cent, on his capital, while the wages of skilled boot and shoemakers average $500 to $600 a year, and in some branches very much more, or twice, at least, the amount of the capital required to set each one at work. It is for this very reason that the capital is so small in ratio to product; that ro large a proportion of the capitalists in the boot and shoe manufacture themselves begin at the bench, having entitled themselves to a credit in the purchase of materials by virtue of their character and not on the basis of their capital.

In converting dirty brown sugar into refined white angar a very large capital is required; yet it is so small in ratio to the value of the ennual product that one-sixteenth of a cent a cund profit suffices for its remunera ery, if the owner can secure a profit of one tenth of a cent a yard upon staple goods, he is

The Labor Enquirer will have to revise its "object lesson" if it really desires to teach truth instead of to disseminate false-

"Answer a Fool According to His Folly." The Columbia (S. C.) Register endeavors to answer what the NATIONAL REPUBLI-CAN said a few days since in relation to the proportion of the federal taxes that the states of the south would have to pay under the free trade Democratic programme. The effort is a weak repetition of the usual argument (?) of the free traders-that a customs duty is a tax. This assertion has been proven untrue time and again, but, as it is the one thing that has always been used by free traders to deceive the people, the Register dishes it up again, with some so-called statistical information to prove it. The Register coolly asserts that under our tariff system for every dollar paid to the government in duties, two dollars are colected for the benefit of the manufacturers From that standpoint the argument is made that the people of the south pay a larger preportion of the tax now than they would have to pay under free trade and a direct

As the average annual income of the United States from customs duties during the past twenty years has been about $225,-660,600, according to the Register the con sumers have paid to the manufacturers who manufacture protected goods in these been over eight per cent.-that is, not so much in twenty years as the sum the Regisr says has been paid by the consumers to the protected manufacturers. It would be unnecessary to answer such nonsense as the Register prints if there were not some people who for want of correct information actually believe it.

The Cant of Inhumanity.

As in the case of liberty horrible crimes have been committed in the name of religion until, even at the present time, there is scarcely a single ecclesiastical establishacut or religious sect in the universe which does not include some members who are so penetrated with religious fervor that, in order to deprive erring brethren of the essed hope of everlasting perdition, they would willingly establish another inquisi-tion—called by some nicer name. Of course, all sane people know that this is not the true spirit of Christianity, but then there are a great many people who are not sane and who always fail to understand the true spirit of anything except that of ignorance, progance, and the big brother, selfishness, Humanity is another word which, like liberty and religion, has been dragged through the mire until its very name might be expressed in Dr. Johnson's definition of another term-"the last refuge of a scoundrel." Yet, notwithstanding this deterioration in the current value of noble symbols, there are those who still believe in liberty. eligion, and humanity, as there undoubt edly are many who have made a cultus of the "whatever-is-is-best" policy, and elevated its corollary "Luissez-faire" into a form of worship which can have no more appropriate title than "the religion of inumanity."

This dissertation is called forth by a book notice in the columns of a contemporary which has an amusing fashion—without the least apparent pretension to knowledge of any sort—of deciding az cathedra, in the serious manner of the late Mr. Toots, upon questions of the greatest difficulty and im-

Miss Helen Campbell, of New York, has ust republished in a book called "Prisoners of Poverty" a number of her contributions which attracted much attention in the Tribunc. This volume describes the miserable condition of whole classes of working women in New York city. One would think that no subject of human interest should deserve more serious or Intelligent consideration, yet "Mr. Toots," our steemed contemporary, disposes of Miss Campbell's benevolent labors as follows :

Ittis also needless for Miss Campbell to tell he world that in New York "grinding poverty and fabulous wealth walk side by side."
What of its That is the normal condition of things; it alreans has been and always will be.
Miss Campbell thinks that until one has defined justice the questions that perplex can have no solution for this generation or for any eneration to come. This is pure sentiment It is not admitted that any injustice is done It is not admitted that any injustice is done.

Mistortune does not necessarily imply injustice.

Labor is a commodity, like school or potatoes, and is bought and sold in the open market. It is subject to the natural law of demand and supply. If women will do plain sewing, of which the world is full, they must be content with very plain pay. They have the remedy to some extent in their own hands. Let them train themselves to the that for which there is the realest demand and the highest wages, and the will be able to dress in silk and keep a carriage Again Miss Campbell calls New York "Th sity which affords the largest percentage of drunkards as well as the largest number of liquor saloons to the mile," &c. This statement is wide of the mark. Gov. Hill, in his vite message of the high license bill, shows that New York and Brooklyn have a smaller number of saloous in proportion to the inhabitants than almost every other city in New York state. Facts are facts, and Miss Campbell, in her search for truth, must stick to them, Readers of our esteemed contemporary are so accustomed to this sort of unreasoning, disconnected "rot" that it is almost condoning the offense to take any notice of it. But, when in answer to a calm and lucid statement of the appalling misers existing in the second wealthiest city of th world, a writer says, "What of it? This is the normal condition of things; it always has been, and always will be," a thinking person will decide upon one of two things: Either the writer of the book notice is an idiot, or civilization is an abject and hope less failure. No man believes that civilization is a failure, therefore a decision can promptly be reached. This precious book notice affords a basis for a catechism of the religion of inhumanity. With all the confidence of sottish ignorance and vulgarity it jumbles up poverty liquor license, all dominated by the whisky favoring message of the governor of New York state. If the present condition of society fairly represented its normal state, and if grinding poverty is to be always the lot of so large a number of our fellow-creatures as the New York researches of Miss Campbell find existing proportionately at present then Christianity is a ridiculous falsehood; art, science, literature, and mechanical in vention are as important as a Chinese puz zle; "ale and cakes" are the supreme good; Schopenhauer's pessimism is the only ra-tional creed, and universal suicide offers the sole remedy for the intolerable misery of an accursed human race.

A Battered Hulk.

Labor men say they will have a candidate in the field. The effect of such a movement is apparent. Laborers, as a rule, are Democratic their leanings, and have been allied with the Democratic party—the party of the peop • • • Then the labor candidate means t estoration of the Republicans to power, for without the support of the labor element the Democrats would have a hard time in a

The Democratic party long since ceased to be "the party of the people;" the laborers have found it out and are deserting it. Some of them are coming to the Republican party because it is truly the friend of labor and proves it by protecting labor from the competition of foreign paupers, and the remainder are casting their lot with the Labor party, leaving Democracy a battered hulk cast away, wrecked by its own sins.

The Same Law for All. The Darlington News "longs for the day when a white man will be hung in South Car-olina for committing a murder," and takes the broad ground that "the certainty of being overtaken by retributive justice is the only preventive of crime." We do not desire the eath of any one, but it must be confessed that as been, and still is, a fearful inc n the measurement of justice in this state. Charleston News and Courier.

These papers at last admit the truth of the charge long since made, and often reit-erated by the Republicans, and as often denied by the Democrats, that negroes could not obtain justice in the courts of South Carolina. While they are making confessions let them admit the other charges equally true but as persistently denied, that negroes are denied the highest privilege of citizenship, the right to an undisturbed vote, and to have it fairly counted, and that every election in South Carolina for over ten years has been carried by force or fraud. IT is proposed that the "Argonauts, who are now residents of Washington proven by the well established fact that on an average investment in manufacturing establishments, including those which do not receive any benefits from protection, of $2,560,000,000, the annual profit has not the Pacific coast surpassed the wildest heavily to the ground. There are several in the city, and it will be a renewal of youth—a veritable discovery of the fabled fountain-to each of them. for a day at least, to meet and revive the memories of that period. All who desire to participate should send their address and the date of their arrival in California to George C. Gorham, Hallet Kilbourn, or Joseph C. McKibben, care of the Critic.

Ar the dinner given last week in New York to the trustees and managers of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens it was pointed out by George William Curtis that America has valuable lessons yet to learn from the Greeks, "who had affected the art, the politics, and the thought of the world more profoundly than any other people in it. The lesson that Attica had to teach was that the most enduring strength and the finest grace of nations came from the intellectual and moral forces in man." The speaker then dwelt upon the fact that America had set ber heart upon "getting the best" of every thing to be had in the world, and that all she needed now to obtain that best was her old energy and some new patience. Mr. Lowell followed in a somewhat similar strain, and evidently with the memory of a late interview before his mind, declared that as in the time of St. Paul there was still in Greece an altar to an unknown god which the American students in that country should declare unto us as a nation : the god of good taste, of gentlemanly reserve, of decency in literature. This sort of teaching we needed more and more as we grew more self-contented and prosperous." The Greeks may have much to teach young Americans, but it is highly probable that however long our students remain in Athens they will never forget the words used by Mr. Lowell upon another occasion in reference to "J. P. Robinson, he," who spoke so disparagingly of the omniscience posessed by all the dwellers "down in Judee.'

AMUSEMENTS.

ALBAUGH'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE,

"Baints and Sinners" is regarded as one of the greatest of Madison Square Theater successes, and, although presented last night under the disadvantage of enormous competition at other houses of entertainment, impressed an appreciative audience as worthy of the favor it had received in New York city and throughout the country.

The story opens in the simple country home of Jacob Fletcher (Mr. C. W. Couldock), the minister of Bethel Chanel. In this character the veteran actor revives in a very remarkable way all our delightful memories of the Vicar of Wakefield. The minister's daughter Lettle (Miss Viola Allen) is made the veterin of a ruffianty scheme, and entrapped into a mock Scottish marriage by Capt. Eustace Fanshaw (Mr. Cedric Hope). She is followed to Edinburgh by her father and rustic lover, Raiph Kingsmill (Mr. Frank Norcross), and upon the discovery of Fanshaw's treachery the broken-hearted victim is taken back to her village home to be treated with the usual contempt. The analysis of village life in this play is excellent, and Deacon Samuel Hoggard (Mr. John Howson), topes Mr. Peter Greenance, store clerk Lot Burden, and a couple of other bucolles remind one of the country people drawn in black and white by so vigorous a literary artist as Thomas Hardy. The analysis of character is keen enough to suggest an operation in moral viviscction, and the addience relished hugely the satire upon hypocrisy. After some years Lettle lives down the feeling against her, but her struggle is a saft and desperate one.

Mr. Couldock and Miss Allen fairly divide the honors of this play. Of the former it need only be said that his work last night aws up to his very highest standard of former years, and that every touch was perfect. Miss Viola Allen is as graceful, whining, soft-voiced, and beautiful as ever, and her artistic power is growing at a pace which should soon land her in the very front rank of her profession. Indeed we doubt very much if there is to day upon the American stage a mor HARRIS'S BLIOU THEATER. Agreat audience and a great enjoyment last night at the Bijou. The drama, "The Romany Rye." was presented throughout with excellent effect; both the acting and the scenery were highly satisfactory. Among the best renderings were those of Jack Rearne, by John T. Burke; Joe Heckett, by Will A. Datiels; Gertie, by Victory Bateman, and Mother Shipton, by Alice A. Harrison. "Romany five 'is well written, of intense interest, many fine dramatic situations, and regularly progresses in power from the beginning to the close. Hearty laughter and appliance often accompanied the story, and the principal performers were called before the curtain. There is pleasure for all who mny attend the Bijou this week.

KERNAN'S WASHINGTON THEATER. The "Knight Owis" were wide awake last night at Kernan's, and so was the immense audience that greeted them. All the enter-tainment swept along, a full Mississpi of splendor and bounty. Lovely were the ladies, sweet voiced in song, graceful and agile in dance, and charming in everything. The mundid their very best to rival perfection. Jutau's aerial performances, participated in by George W. Brown, were indeed wonderful, and probably himitable. "A-Donis," the buriesque, which brought out the entire company, also produced its complete talent, and corresponding pleasure throughout the iheater. The hall of statues was particularly effective.

The Maennerchor's Last Concert. The Germania Macnnerchor gave its last public concert and ball last night for the season at Abner's Hall. It was for the benefit season at Abner's Hall. It was for the benefit of the German Orphan Asylum, and a handsome sum will be realized. The concert was a pleasant feature, and Messrs, James H. Forsylb, Monuity, Helvingo, Opperman, and T. Mori, and Misses Clara Rossyla Mosconery and Bosenberg aided the Macmarschor in rendering vocal and instrumental music. The "Temptation," a two act concedy, followed the concert, and the cast was impersonated by Messrs, Colignon, Manslebon, and Ester, Mrs. Holfelder, and Miss Rothe, and cash were roundly applanded. At 10 o'clock the floor was cleared and dancing took place and continued until 2 o'clock in the morning. Every one present was much pleased with the entertainment.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night a colored man, about 50 years of age, was seen to starger in front of 1312. Twelfih street, and then fall

"JIM THE PENMAN."

As the curtain rose on the beautiful and exquisitely arranged blue and gilt drawing room seene in the first act of "Jim, the Penman," last night it gladdened the eyes and brought forth rounds of applause from the most distinguished audience that has assembled in Washington this season. The boxes were occupied by the very cream of assembled in Washington this season. The boxes were occupied by the very cream of official life, while scated in the orchestra and dress circle were the most prominent people in the national capital. High officials, prominent leaders in society, men eminent in literary and scientific circles, and nearly the entire representation at the various legations in this city formed an unequaled assemblage of the official, social, diplomatic, and literary life of Washington. Every seat in the house was taken, and the walls of the three galleries were lined with people unable to secure seats. As high as 310 a seat was unsuccessfully offered shortly before the play began.

The performance was for the benefit of the "actor's fund," and was given by Mr. A. M. Palmer's Madison Square Theater Company, of New York, which came to the city Sunday night by special train in order to give last night's exhibition. The performance was of course an excellent and brilliant one. As the actors severally entered they were in turn warmly greeted, and as the curtain fell on the first act the applause broke forth in a storm from every part of the house. After the curtain had risen three times in response to the demands of the audience, there was a tramedous outburst as an usher came upbearing a huge flower basket of roses, which broke into four bunches as it was handed to the staze. The bouquets were distributed to the ladies of the cast. In the lower right hand box was the President, Col. and Mrs. Lamont, and Marshal and Mrs. Wilson. In the adjoining box were Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, and the Swedish minister and party. The opposite boxes were occupied by Mr. W. W. Corcoran and party, and Mesars. Palmer and Repley and ladies. In the box above the President's were seated Secretary Endicott and ladies, and in the boxes facing them Secretary and here is in the secretary Endicott and ladies, and in the bison of the facing them S

Fairchild and ladies, and Senator Mitchell and party.

It is impossible to give the names all the distinguished people in the audience, but among them were Secretary Bayard and daughters. Assistant Secretary of State Adee, ex-Postmaster General J. A. J. Creswell, Mr. T. E. Roessie, Capt. Pembroke Marshall, Col. Robert I. Fleming, Col. J. Hillyer, Commodore Schley, Col. S. C. Kellogg, Mr. John Tweedale, ex-Secretary William E. Chandler, and Mr. Heaton, the artist. artist.
